

Duty of Candour Report 2023-2024

All health and social care services in the UK have Duty of Candour responsibilities. This is a legal requirement which means that when things go wrong and mistakes happen, the people affected understand what has happened, receive an apology and organisations learn how to improve for the future.

An important part of this duty is to provide an annual report about the duty of candour in our service. This short report describes how Ty Llandaff Care has operated the duty of candour during the period from 1st April 2023 to the 31st of March 2024. We hope you find this report useful.

Ty Llandaff Care Home in Cardiff is a care home for up to 69 residents. We provide residential, nursing care for older people who require care and support in a homely setting. We aim to ensure that our residents receive an excellent quality of care and live happy, fulfilled lives.

Within the last 12 months, there have been 2 incidents at the home, to which the duty of candour applied. These are where types of incidents have happened which are unintended or unexpected, and do not relate directly to the natural course of someone's illness or underlying condition.

person and in writing, and offered to meet with them and their families. We reviewed what happened and what if anything, went wrong to try and learn for the future.

If something has happened that triggers the duty of candour, our staff report this to the Home Manager who has responsibility for ensuring that the Duty of Candour procedure is followed. The Home manager records the incident or accident and reports it as necessary to the Care Inspectorate Wales the local contracting authority, the Regional Director, and the Quality Director, for the company. When an incident or accident has happened, the Home Manager and staff set up a learning review. This allows everyone involved to review what happened and identify changes for the future.

All new staff learn about the duty of candour at their induction. We know that serious mistakes can be distressing for staff as well as people who use care and their families.

In response to the two residents who experienced harm, in consultation with the individuals and their families, we reviewed their care and support plans including changing the position of furniture of a resident and the introduction of falls technology in the form of a sensor mat. We completed increased safety checks and reassured the family through practice and lessons learnt that we had taken all necessary steps to safeguard their loved one following an unwitnessed fall. With regards to the wrong medication being given, we followed the medication error process, ensuring the process was followed to ensure the resident was not harmed by the medication given, the GP was consulted, the family and resident were informed and safeguarding documentation was submitted and closed as an error with no intent to cause harm. The staff member completed medication competency training and reflective practice which was shared as a lesson learnt.

This is the sixth year of the duty of candour being in operation and it has helped focus our learning and planning for improvements as a service and as a company. It has helped us to remember that people who use our services have the right to know when things could be better, as well as when they go well.

As required, we have made this report available to the regulator but in the spirit of openness, we have published it to share with our residents and their relatives too.
